

GMS Press Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GMS Language Services® wins tender to provide language training to the Swedish National Heritage Board – “Riksantikvarieämbetet-RAÄ”

Stockholm , SWE; October 7 2009: The Swedish National Heritage Board, “RAÄ”, has chosen GMS Language Services to provide language training in English to their employees in Sweden. The results of tender were announced on September 18, 2009. According to “RAÄs”, Ninni Adolphson, “GMS Language Services® fulfils the organization’s needs both in quality as well as price”.

“RAÄ’s” investment in language training with GMS is part of a greater aim of communicating more effectively within the organization and with the general public . “We are pleased to assist “RAÄ” in reaching their communication goals. It’s an honor to collaborate with such an interesting organization”, says Mariana Martins, GMS’ Account Manager.

About the Swedish National Heritage Board: “RAÄ” is a governmental organisation with responsibility for the culturally historical environment and cultural heritage. The board’s activities include coordination of archaeological ventures, preservation of historical findings and dissemination of information about the historical environment. RAÄ’s focus is to protect and preserve the cultural heritage, respect the cultural heritage of individual groups as well as promote the understanding for, participation in and respect for the individual’s own cultural heritage.

Their vision is to make the cultural heritage, important, accessible and useful to all.

About GMS Language Services®: A leading global language and communications company with local experts, GMS Language Services offers a comprehensive range of services developed with a focus on results. GMS’ unbeatable quality and emphasis on customer service ensures consistent, top quality training across borders with guaranteed excellence and effectiveness. GMS provides language and communication training, E-learning, coaching, translations and interpretation services to corporations and governmental organisations spanning 3 continents in over 14 countries.

Inquiries may be made to info@gmsgroup.us.com .

Access our website for further information: <http://www.gmsgroup.us.com>