GMS Language Services® and Weber Announce Training Partnership

New agreement opens up new opportunities for Weber

La Defense, France; September 16 2009: GMS Language Services®, one of the Europe's leading providers of language and communication training, was chosen as a preferred supplier for Weber.

The aim of the partnership is to increase the current offering of educational services to Weber's personnel, making increased competence the best response to changing market conditions. The new agreement will provide a variety of language and communication training, specially designed to meet Weber's specific needs and expectations.

Yvonne Lundell, Weber's HR Manager says: "It was very important for Weber to find a committed partner with a clear interest in finding the right solutions for us and our employees. GMS' comprehensive offer covers all types of language training needed by Weber. Their representatives are enthusiastic and passionate about what they do. Taking these factors into account made the decision easy to make."

Tracie Binderis, GMS' Account Manager added: "We're extremely pleased to announce this partnership. Weber's employees will have the opportunity to receive top-quality instruction, with great support from GMS' team of experts."
